

Today, Hawai'i's communities are coming together. They are working to reclaim their role as stewards of their places, advancing just solutions to Hawai'i's most difficult environmental and social problems.

They are joined in this work by others who are researchers, teachers, businesses, artists, resource managers, decision-makers and individuals in Hawai'i and around the world.

KUA exists to serve this movement.

KUA'ĀINA ULU 'AUAMO (KUA) has a 16-year history of movement-building, strategic support, and capacity building for community stewardship in Hawai'i. We believe empowered communities caring for their lands, water and culture, lead us to our vision of an abundant, productive ecological system that supports community well-being--'āina momona.

Today, KUA facilitates three grassroots networks made up of rural community groups, families, and others who are engaged in hands-on, site-based stewardship. These include E Alu Pū (Move Forward Together), Hui Mālama Loko I'a (Hawaiian fishpond caretakers), and the Limu Hui (seaweed stewards and gatherers.)

our model of impact...

Together we are building a backbone of powerful and connected communities, transforming Hawai'i through stewardship of Hawaiian lands, waters and culture.

1. THROUGH THESE ACTIONS:

NETWORK-BUILDING through gatherings, workshops and community exchanges

STRATEGIC SUPPORT like technical assistance, training, tools, or travel that help get the ball rolling when needed

FACILITATING ADVOCACY
that builds alliances and
helps communities support
one another

2. WE ACHIEVE THESE CONDITIONS:

- Communities are decision-makers
- Community practitioners are resource managers
- Communities can sustain their efforts
 - Communities adapt to changing conditions

3. TO REACH OUR VISION:

Abundant and healthy ecological systems in Hawai'i that contribute to community well-being.

Our island home is a unique place of great beauty and abundance. But today, a combination of over-harvesting, development, pollution, water diversion, sedimentation and the introduction of alien species have led to Hawai'i's status as the endangered species capital of the world.

This loss disproportionately affects rural Hawaiian communities, where many rely on subsistence (hunting, fishing and gathering) and for whom the decline of natural and cultural resources is equivalent to the loss of culture, history, and way of life.

Communities across Hawai'i are coming together to meet these challenges. KUA exists to support, connect, strengthen and accelerate the movement they are building.
